DESIGNING THE COSTUMES

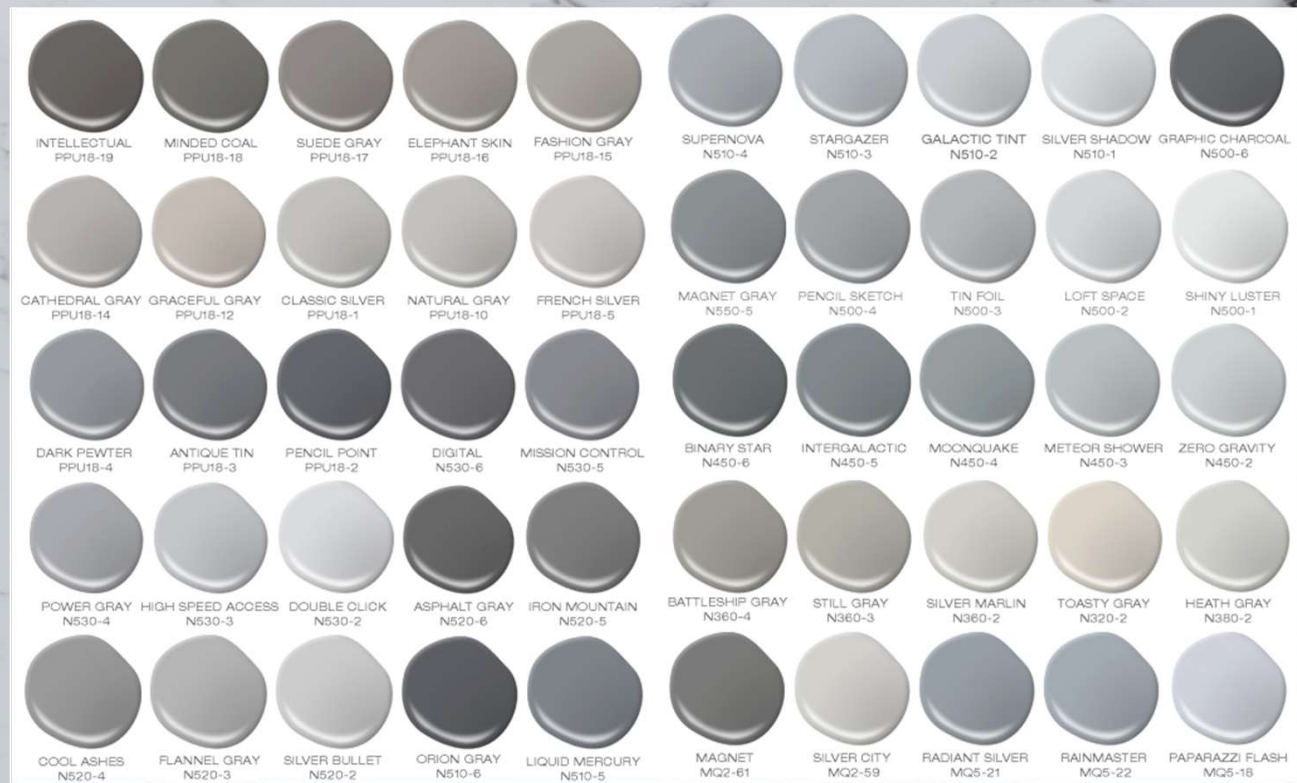

The Ancestors

Awkwardly... there are actually 50 Shades of Grey!

We want to use the whitest monochromatic greys within this palette as our base colour scheme... then accent specifics of each costumes with slightly darker greys or beige and blue variations.

Costume design: the ULTIMATE Tetris™ game!

Consider your costume like a Tetris game where each new building block of the same colour uses a different texture. This provides more space for us to add darker, beige or blue grey shades to create depth in The Ancestors.

Top to toe looks... driven by CONTEXT

The right balance of white, grey, beige and blue-grey is very significant to the overall aesthetic. The Ancestors are the only group that purposefully absorb and bounce lighting states around the stage space.

CREATIVITY

You can be creative with your costuming by accessing as many resources as possible. I always suggest following a “bits and bobs” approach by recycling, repurposing, and re-imagining... there is literally inspo everywhere!

Finally... the production crew are requesting the following to get started on set, prop and costume designs:

- ✓ Glass jars, vials and bottles (de-labelled please!)
- ✓ Polystyrene pieces (like the ones that cushion items inside boxes)
- ✓ Short/tall boxes with lids (for storage needs and repurposing)
- ✓ Halloween-y items you no longer need (think Addams family home and trinkets)
- ✓ Pool noodles (we're not kidding!)
- ✓ Your presence on big design days!
